Q ■ Do you support or oppose the creation of a state-facilitated savings plan for Delaware workers who lack access to a retirement savings plan at work? (Please limit response to 125 words.)

Creation of a state-facilitated retirement savings plan

Support Oppose

More than half of American workers lack access to a retirement savings plan at work. One approach to expand savings is to use a state's expertise, experience, and leverage with retirement plan providers to establish workplace savings programs for small private employers that don't have such programs.

Small employers find that their size exposes them to high plan fees that are prohibitive. When many small employers are combined, providers are more interested and costs drop. To keep employers' cost low, the ongoing expenses of operating such a program would be paid from participants' fees. The state would supervise the establishment and oversight of such a plan, but would have no fiduciary or legal liability for it.

Considering the economy and the decrease in employer supported pension plans, I would support a state-facilitated savings plan as long as there is no fiscal responsibility to taxpayers or the state of Delaware. This plan would need to require workers to individually pay to participate, and there would have to be a mechanism to prevent individuals with complex medical problems from becoming the majority of enrollees.

Q: In the face of escalating cost, how would you reform the health care system to make it available, affordable and accessible for every Delawarean? (Please limit response to 125 words.)

AARP's Position:

Supports measures to achieve access to affordable health care coverage.

Support Oppose

There are an estimated 104,000 uninsured people in Delaware. AARP supports measures to achieve access to affordable health care coverage for all individuals. In the absence of universal coverage, AARP supports incremental reforms specifically targeted to particular populations that significantly improve coverage options for those without public or private insurance, or those at risk of losing coverage.

Opening existing public programs (e.g., Medicaid) to new categories of people who are uninsured; subsidizing the cost of private coverage for those who are uninsured, underinsured, or at risk of losing coverage. To pay for this, AARP supports cost containment through an evidence-based preferred list; multi-state purchasing pools; and supplemental rebates for prescription drugs. AARP opposes efforts to cap Medicaid through block grants.

Mr. Harold Peterman

(Republican):

Increasing access to health insurance.

Support Oppose

It is critical as the number of uninsured Delawareans increase each year to develop some additional options for health care coverage. This could be done on an incremental basis to try and provide affordable health care taking into account the increasing cost of health care nationwide and the importance of cost-effectiveness. Since Delaware is a relatively small state, pooling with other states could be a viable option along with other measures which I would be willing to evaluate.

What specific steps would you take to ensure that consumers in need of long-term care have access to a full range of services, so that they have a choice to remain in their own homes rather than be placed in a nursing home. (Please limit response to 125 words.)

AARP's Position:

Rebalancing our long-term care system, including programs which allow certain nursing home residents to transition into less restrictive settings.

Support Oppose

Delawareans who need help with activities of daily living, such as eating, bathing, and dressing, should have the choice to stay at home rather than be forced into a nursing home. Annually, the state spends 91 percent of its long-term care budget on nursing homes, and only 9 percent on home- and community-based care, despite the fact it often costs significantly more for nursing home care than home or community based services, and many nursing home residents can receive appropriate care in the home or community.

AARP supports removing the funding inequality that favors nursing homes over home- and community-based long-term care. Programs should be expanded to permit nursing home residents with less intensive care needs to transition back home or into other less restrictive settings.

Rebalancing our long-term care system, including programs which allow certain nursing home residents to transition into less restrictive settings.

Support Oppose

Federal as well as state regulations often present barriers for individuals seeking long term care outside of a nursing home. Decreasing reimbursement for providers doesn't provide incentives for them to promote this option. Choices to encourage home health care or even assisted living should be explored. I would encourage the evaluation of state options which could prove cost-effective in reducing state Medicaid payments to nursing homes.
