How to use the AARP Voters' Guide:
Here's how this Voters' Guide works. AARP asked key questions about issues important to our members and their families of each major candidate for this race. Each candidate was allowed up to 125 words to answer each question. AARP did not edit or modify those answers. The candidates were asked to check the support or oppose circles. The candidates may have chosen not to check a circle.

AARP has provided a summary of our position for each of the issues.

- Pass this guide on to friends and family.
- Share your views with the candidates.
- Ask for clarification from any candidate whose answer seems unclear.

Health and Financial Security

Millions of Americans worry about their health and long-term financial security. They fear the future will not be as prosperous for their children and grandchildren. They face competing demands of affording health care, saving for retirement, sending children to college and supporting aging parents. At the same time, soaring health care costs constrain employers' ability to grow and compete.

AARP believes that providing quality, affordable health care and improving lifelong financial security for all Americans should be legislative priorities.

Health care and long-term financial security was provided by the Soviet Union. For over fifty years health care and long-term financial security covered everyone. However, both services were limited to those who needed it. Only in the U.S. is where the people has the freedom to have both. Today, those in the U.S. has the freedom to have both health care and financial security. It's up to the individual not the government.

To stop the gridlock is up to the voter to vote for the person who is pro-free market and anti-government regulation. With more free market this will bring more freedom. Gridlock can end, it is up to the voter.

More than half of American workers lack access to a retirement savings plan at work. One new approach to expand savings is to use a state's experience and expertise to provide workplace retirement savings programs for small employers that are unable to provide them because of high fees.

When groups of small employers join together these fees drop enough to be affordable. Once the program is established, operational costs would be paid by participants. The state would be reimbursed for the costs of establishing the plan, and would serve as overseer of the plan, but would have no fiduciary or legal liability for its performance.

AARP supports adoption of this kind of state assisted retirement savings plan.

To create another level of government to force Michigan workers to save for the future will not work. Today the State of Michigan removes more than enough money from Michigan workers. Would this become a state run social security? With state income taxes, gas taxes and every other state taxes will create less money in the workers wallets. If the state government would take less money in taxes from the workers, the workers would have the money for their retirement. Vote for those who will for less taxes and more choice.

Reforming Long-Term Care

Q: Will you support or oppose legislation that creates a “one-stop shopping” system for long-term care supports, services and payment options? Will you support allowing consumers to choose where they will receive state-funded long-term care services and to select the service provider?

AARP's Position:

A single agency for “one-stop shopping.”

Support Oppose

Make single point of entry available statewide beginning in 2010.

Many Michigan residents and their families, who need long-term care to maintain independence, often face confusion searching through the maze of service options scattered throughout many different agencies. Unfortunately, most options are geared to nursing homes rather than home and community based care, which most people prefer. It would make this process much easier to have information, assessment, and eligibility determination for services in a single agency so residents have one-stop shopping.

AARP supports two major changes in the state's long-term care system:

- Creation of “one-stop shopping” approach for long-term care information, assessment, eligibility determination, and payment options.
- Allowing consumers to choose where they will receive state-funded long-term care services and to select the service provider.

One stop shopping means removing some agencies from the state government which is a good start. Allowing Michigan residents to become empowered with choice where, who, when, how, and why long-term care is done should be done by Michigan residents only and not by government. Government is again the problem and not the answer.

Prescription Drug Affordability

Q: Will you support or oppose legislation that requires pharmacies to post the prices of the 150 most prescribed drugs and their generic equivalents? Will you support or oppose legislation requiring drug companies to report what they spend on marketing to physicians?

AARP's Position:

Require pharmacies to post prices

Support Oppose

Require drug companies to reveal marketing expenses to physicians

Prescription drug prices continue to increase at nearly twice the rate of general inflation and more employers are eliminating prescription drug coverage for their workers and retirees. AARP supports policies to help people afford needed prescription drugs, such as access to information on comparable generic drug prices.

Consumers need to know if pharmaceutical sales representatives are influencing physicians to choose expensive brand name drugs over less expensive generic drugs.

AARP wants to ensure a free and open marketplace that makes available the lowest possible prescription drug prices. We support legislation that:

- Requires pharmacies to post the prices of the 150 most prescribed drugs and their generic equivalents; and
- Requires drug companies to report to the state what they spend on marketing to physicians.

Require pharmacies to post prices: A free and open market is the best answer for the lowest prices and the best chance of choice. Choice is the key word, not government regulations, not another layer of government. More government leads to higher prices with less choice. The demand in the market will force pharmacies to post their prices, not government rules.

Require drug companies to reveal marketing expenses: To require drug companies to reveal marketing expenses to physicians is no business of any government unless there is any law being broken. It is another back door to more government and less freedom. I'm for more freedom and less government.
