

2008 AARP Voters' Guide

Michigan State House District 36

How to use the AARP Voters' Guide:
Here's how this Voters' Guide works. AARP asked key questions about issues important to our members and their families of each major candidate for this race. Each candidate was allowed up to 125 words to answer each question. AARP did not edit or modify those answers. The candidates were asked to check the support or oppose circles. The candidates may have chosen not to check a circle.

AARP has provided a summary of our position for each of the issues.

- Pass this guide on to friends and family.
- Share your views with the candidates.
- Ask for clarification from any candidate whose answer seems unclear.

Be sure to vote on November 4.

Health and Financial Security

Q: Are you committed to working with your fellow elected officials, regardless of party, to develop and implement policies that provide all Americans with access to quality, affordable health care and lifetime financial security?

AARP's Position:

Commit to help end gridlock by working across party lines.

Support Oppose

Robert Murphy (D)

Millions of Americans worry about their health and long-term financial security. They fear the future will not be as prosperous for their children and grandchildren. They face competing demands of affording health care, saving for retirement, sending children to college and supporting aging parents. At the same time, soaring health care costs constrain employers' ability to grow and compete.

AARP believes that providing quality, affordable health care and improving lifelong financial security for all Americans should be legislative priorities.

I'm a different kind of democrat, the democrat republicans can vote for! Politics is more about party and power, my-self I am about people. My 20 plus year volunteer record speaks for me as proof positive for being the candidate that cares.

Retirement Savings Programs

Q ■ Do you support or oppose the creation of a state assisted savings plan for Michigan workers who lack access to a retirement savings plan at work?

More than half of American workers lack access to a retirement savings plan at work. One new approach to expand savings is to use a state's experience and expertise to provide workplace retirement savings programs for small employers that are unable to provide them because of high fees.

When groups of small employers join together these fees drop enough to be affordable. Once the program is established, operational costs would be paid by participants. The state would be reimbursed for the costs of establishing the plan, and would serve as overseer of the plan, but would have no fiduciary or legal liability for its performance.

AARP supports adoption of this kind of state assisted retirement savings plan.

If all the kinks are worked out. Let's take an in-depth look at it to insure it's fair across the board. No favoritism for fund managers and a good return for investors is essential for the programs success.

Reforming Long-Term Care

Q: Will you support or oppose legislation that creates a “one-stop shopping” system for long-term care supports, services and payment options? Will you support allowing consumers to choose where they will receive state-funded long-term care services and to select the service provider?

AARP's Position:

A single agency for “one-stop shopping.”

Support Oppose

Make single point of entry available statewide beginning in 2010.

Support Oppose

Allow consumers to choose where they will receive services and select the service provider.

Many Michigan residents and their families, who need long-term care to maintain independence, often face confusion searching through the maze of service options scattered throughout many different agencies. Unfortunately, most options are geared to nursing homes rather than home and community based care, which most people prefer. It would make this process much easier to have information, assessment, and eligibility determination for services in a single agency so residents have one-stop shopping.

AARP supports two major changes in the state's long-term care system:

- Creation of “one-stop shopping” approach for long-term care information, assessment, eligibility determination, and payment options.
- Allowing consumers to choose where they will receive state-funded long-term care services and to select the service provider.

Why not one stop shop. At the very least it's a time saver. And at best we'll all save money in gas, aggravation from not running about, and frustration at the point of information.

Q: Will you support or oppose legislation that requires pharmacies to post the prices of the 150 most prescribed drugs and their generic equivalents? Will you support or oppose legislation requiring drug companies to report what they spend on marketing to physicians?

AARP's Position:

Require pharmacies to post prices

Support Oppose

Prescription drug prices continue to increase at nearly twice the rate of general inflation and more employers are eliminating prescription drug coverage for their workers and retirees. AARP supports policies to help people afford needed prescription drugs, such as access to information on comparable generic drug prices.

Consumers need to know if pharmaceutical sales representatives are influencing physicians to choose expensive brand name drugs over less expensive generic drugs.

AARP wants to ensure a free and open marketplace that makes available the lowest possible prescription drug prices. We support legislation that:

- Requires pharmacies to post the prices of the 150 most prescribed drugs and their generic equivalents; and
- Requires drug companies to report to the state what they spend on marketing to physicians.

Require drug companies to reveal marketing expenses to physicians and patients. Only then can we begin to realize the scope of monies involved with the prescription drug manufacturers. One side will argue profits. The other (us) will scream for savings.
