We are pleased to join with the cities of Evans and Greeley to support the work of the United Way Collective Impact Aging Well Committee and become part of the AARP Network of Age-Friendly Communities.

We are excited about the opportunity to expand our work through the efforts of volunteers and stakeholders under the jurisdiction of the Aging Well Committee.

We understand how important it is to create conditions for people to be able to live-in-place in communities that support their health, well-being, and quality of life.

As a small community it is important that we network with our neighboring cities, and others across the nation, to learn more about their programs and best practices and be able to share our experiences.

With the rapidly changing demographics in our area we are anxious to ensure that older adults, and people of all ages, will continue to be well-integrated members of our community.
