

Older voters have identified Medicare as one of their top issues in the November elections, yet too many politicians fail to recognize the contributions Medicare makes to the economy and the health security of millions of Americans. Any candidates who fail to talk about how they would strengthen Medicare for future generations do so at their peril.

Fact Sheet: Ohio

JULY 2018

Medicare Contributes $26 Billion to Ohio's Economy

Medicare helped pay the health care costs of 2.1 million Medicare beneficiaries in Ohio in 2017, allowing its seniors to get the care they need and protecting them from serious financial burdens.

In addition, Medicare is a critical part of the economic infrastructure of Ohio, investing about $26 billion in the state in 2017. Thousands of businesses, large and small, including hospitals, nursing homes, physicians' offices and medical device providers, rely on Medicare to exist and maintain their operations. Businesses in Ohio receiving Medicare dollars use them to pay employee salaries, rent, and state and local taxes, as well as buy equipment and make capital improvements to their facilities.

In fact, Medicare spending in Ohio is equivalent to about 20 percent of spending by state and local governments in Ohio.

Here's how much Medicare* spent in Ohio by health care service sector:

| | |
|---|----------------|
| Hospitals | $11.2 billion |
| Physicians | $5.6 billion |
| Other health professionals | $800 million |
