

Older voters have identified Medicare as one of their top issues in the November elections, yet too many politicians fail to recognize the contributions Medicare makes to the economy and the health security of millions of Americans. Any candidates who fail to talk about how they would strengthen Medicare for future generations do so at their peril.

Fact Sheet: Oregon

JULY 2018

Medicare Contributes $7.9 Billion to Oregon’s Economy

Medicare helped pay the health care costs of 759,824 Medicare beneficiaries in Oregon in 2017, allowing its seniors to get the care they need and protecting them from serious financial burdens.

In addition, Medicare is a critical part of the economic infrastructure of Oregon, investing about $7.9 billion in the state in 2017. Thousands of businesses, large and small, including hospitals, nursing homes, physicians’ offices and medical device providers, rely on Medicare to exist and maintain their operations. Businesses in Oregon receiving Medicare dollars use them to pay employee salaries, rent, and state and local taxes, as well as buy equipment and make capital improvements to their facilities.

In fact, Medicare spending in Oregon is equivalent to about 16 percent of spending by state and local governments in Oregon.

Here’s how much Medicare* spent in Oregon by health care service sector:

Hospitals	$3.4 billion
Physicians	$2 billion
Other health professionals	$289 million
Skilled nursing facilities	$354 million
