

Social Security: 2012 Louisiana Quick Facts

Louisiana's 65+ population is expanding.

In 2010, Louisiana's population was about 4.5 million, with 12% being age 65 and older (566,000) residents.¹ In 2015, the 65+ population will make up 14% of the state's population, and in 2030, it will be 20%.^{2,3}

Louisiana ranks 26th in income level among the states.

The average personal income in Louisiana was $38,446 in 2010. Louisiana's per capita income (26th) ranks lower than Texas (23rd) but higher than Iowa (28th).⁴

One in six Louisiana residents receives Social Security.

The Social Security program not only provides monthly benefits to retired workers, but also to families when the worker retires, dies, or becomes disabled. In 2010, over 54 million Americans received Social Security benefits; of these, 790,617 lived in Louisiana.⁵

In 2010, one in six Louisiana residents received Social Security.¹ While 52% of beneficiaries are retirees, 48% are not: 93,272 are widows and widowers; 142,796 are people with disabilities; 89,626 are children; and 50,915 are spouses.⁵

Louisiana Social Security Beneficiaries

Social Security pumps over nine billion dollars into Louisiana's economy.

In 2010, Louisiana residents received 9.6 billion dollars from Social Security.⁶ The average yearly Social Security benefit for a Louisiana retiree in 2010 was $12,724—or about $1,060 a month.⁷

Nearly all Louisiana residents age 65 or older receive Social Security.

Over 17% of all people receive Social Security benefits; in Louisiana, 18% of residents do. However, older people are more likely to receive the benefit, with 92% of those ages 65 and over receiving it nationwide, and 88% of older Louisianans receiving it.¹

Social Security lifts more than one-third of retirees from poverty.

In 2009, more than one-third (35%) of the nation's older population would be living in poverty if they were not receiving Social Security. In Louisiana, 41% of the state's 65+ population would have incomes below the poverty line if they did not receive Social Security.⁸

Social Security is the only source of income for nearly four in ten Louisianans age 65+.

Social Security makes up 50 percent or more of the income for six in ten Louisianans age 65 and older. Nearly four in ten older Louisianans rely on Social Security as their only source of income.^{9,10}
