AARP collected the data for this project through a survey administered by Woelfel Research Inc. Survey data was collected via telephone April 8-14, 2014 among a random sample of 502 registered voters ages 50 and over in Georgia. The margin of error for a sample of 502 randomly selected respondents is +/- 4.4 percentage points at the 95% confidence level. S. Protecting Older Workers Against Discrimination Act: A Survey of Georgia Voters Ages 50+ May 2014

Key Survey Findings

- ✓ About one in three older Georgia voters report that they or someone they know has recently experienced age discrimination in the workplace.
- ✓ About nine in ten say it is important for Congress to take action and restore workplace protections against age discrimination (89%).
- ✓ Across party and ideological lines, they support the Protecting Older Workers Against Discrimination Act (POWADA) (80%).
- ✓ Over eight in ten say they want their Member of Congress to support POWADA (84%).

Since the mid-1980s, older workers have been working longer. The decline of traditional pensions, inadequate savings, and now the losses in jobs and wealth due to the Great Recession mean that millions of older Americans face a future of economic insecurity unless they are able to work. The unemployment rate for older workers has soared in recent years, and once out of work, older jobseekers experience far longer spells of unemployment – nearly a year, on average – than their younger counterparts. Age discrimination is one of the significant reasons why it takes so much longer for older jobseekers to become reemployed. It can also pose barriers to those who want to stay employed or advance in their jobs.

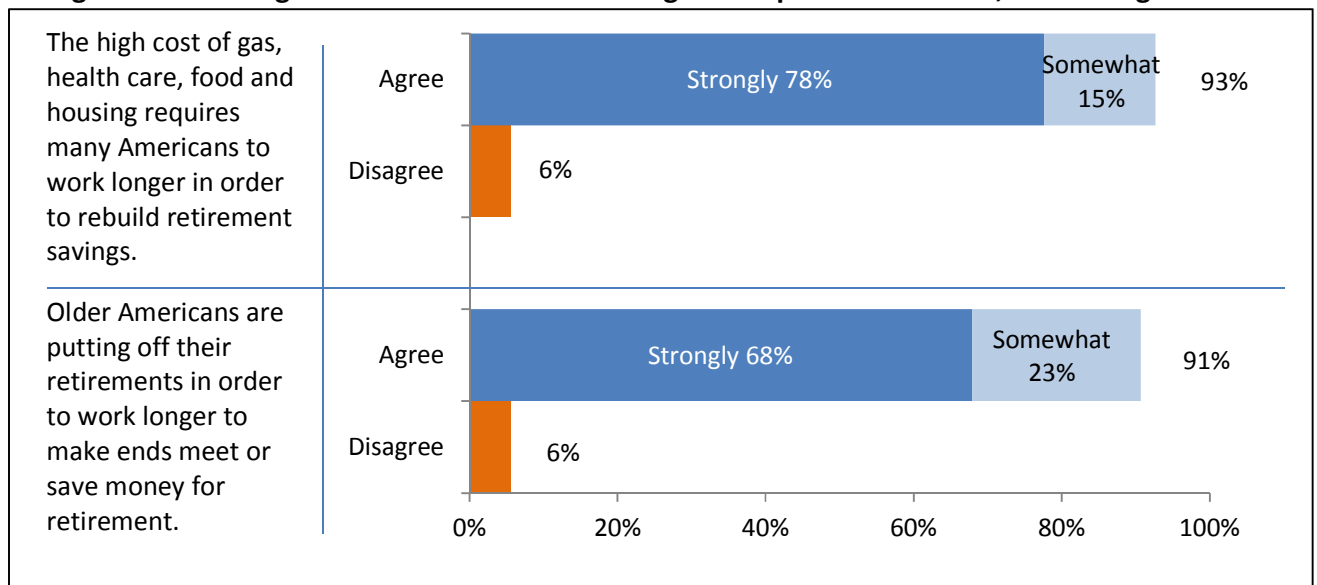

In 2009, the U.S. Supreme Court changed the rules and decided that workers who assert they were discriminated against because of their age would have to do more than prove that age was one factor behind how they were treated, which had been the law for everyone for decades. Unlike the rules that apply to workers who have been discriminated against due to race, sex, nationality, and religion, older workers must now prove that age was the decisive factor, making it far more difficult to prove their case. A bipartisan group of lawmakers has introduced legislation, the Protecting Older Workers Against Discrimination Act (POWADA), to restore the previous legal rules and protections that existed before the 2009 decision.

To determine public views on older workers, age discrimination, and the Protecting Older Workers Against Discrimination Act (POWADA), AARP commissioned Woelfel Research Inc. to conduct a statewide survey in Georgia. The survey was conducted by telephone from April 8 through April 14, 2014, with a random sample of 502 registered voters age 50 and over across Georgia. Respondents were screened to ensure that they were ages 50+ and that they vote “always,” “almost always,” or “most of the time” “when there is a general election, such as for your state’s senator or member of Congress.” Results were weighted by age and gender. The margin of error for a sample of 502 randomly selected respondents is +/- 4.4 percentage points at the 95% confidence level. The full annotated questionnaire appears in the Appendix.

Finding: Nine in Ten Older Georgia Voters Believe that High Cost of Living, Making Ends Meet, and Saving for Retirement Require Americans 50+ to Work Longer

Ninety-three percent of respondents agree that the high cost of gas, health care, food, and housing requires many Americans to work longer in order to rebuild their retirement savings, with 78% strongly agreeing (figure 1). Furthermore, 91% agree that older Americans are putting off retirement either to make ends meet or to save money for retirement (figure 1).

Finding: Nearly Seven in Ten Non-Retirees Are Not Yet Able to Retire (68%); 25% of Retirees May Need to Return to Work

Only 21% of non-retirees say they have or are close to having enough to retire comfortably. Sixty-eight percent (68%) say they will have to work for a number of years or are unsure when they will be able to retire (figure 2). Among retirees who are not currently working at all, 25% say that they may need to return to work.

Non-Retirees (n=160)

You have already retired but may need to return to work.	25%
You saved enough prior to retirement to live comfortably.	67%

Note: The base (n) shown for each column is unweighted. All percentages are weighted.

 The responses shown are among retirees who are not currently working at all. The question was asked of all retirees, including those who consider themselves to be “retired and working at least part-time” as well as retirees who are not working at all. The responses among all retirees are displayed in the annotated questionnaire. (See Appendix.)

Finding: Four in Five Are Concerned Age Could Be an Obstacle to Finding Work

Eighty-two percent of respondents are concerned that their age would be an obstacle to finding work if they had to find a new job in the current economic climate. In fact, 63% say they are “very concerned” (figure 3).¹

Figure 3 – If you had to find a new job in the current economic climate, how concerned are you that your age would be an obstacle to finding work?
Very	63%
Somewhat	20%
Not too	7%
Not at all	9%

¹ All percentages in this report are rounded to the nearest whole percentage point. Therefore, the sum of the individual rounded percentages may differ slightly from the actual results. For example, the percent of respondents who are either “very concerned” or “somewhat concerned” that their age would be an obstacle to finding work is 82 percent even though the share who “strongly agree” and “somewhat agree” round to 63% and 20%, respectively.

Finding: Three in Four Think People Age 50 and Older Face Age Discrimination in the Workplace; 34% Say They or Someone They Know Has Recently Experienced Age Discrimination

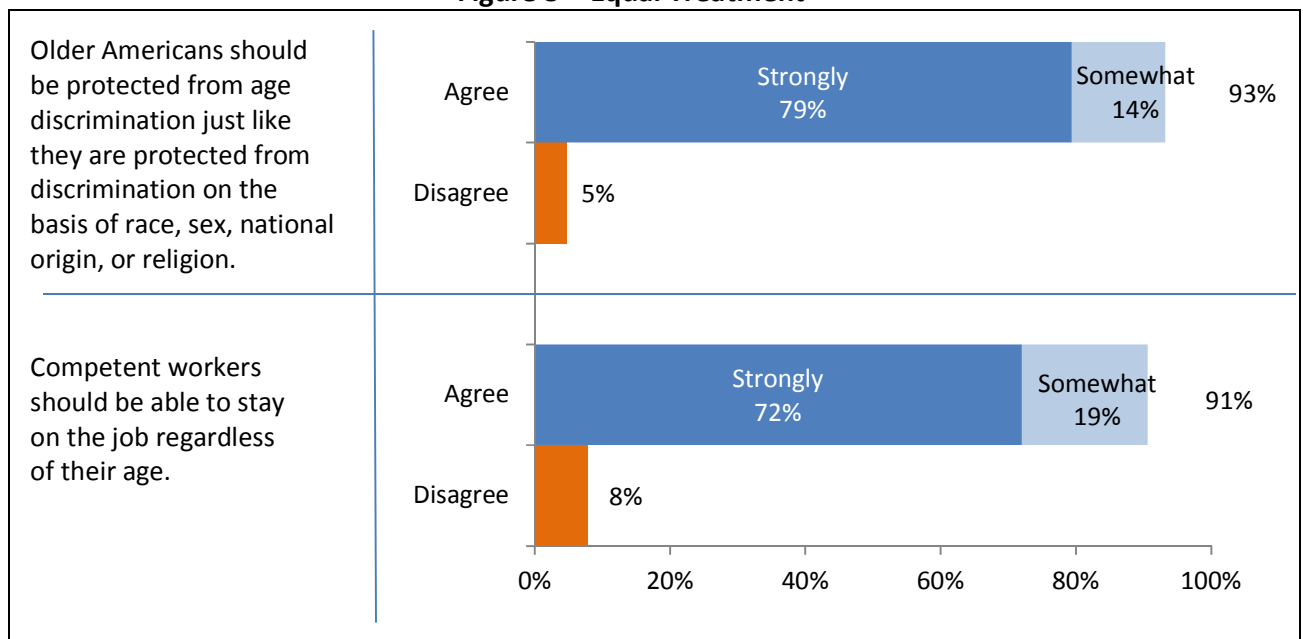

Age discrimination is an issue of concern for Georgia voters 50 and over. Three in four respondents (75%) think that people over age 50 face age discrimination in the workplace. Moreover, about one in three (34%) report either they personally faced age discrimination in the last four years, or know someone who has, with 5% of total respondents having personally experienced age discrimination in the last four years (figure 4).

Based on what you have seen or experienced, do you think people over the age of 50 face age discrimination today in the workplace?		In the last four years, have you or has anyone you know faced age discrimination in the workplace, such as refusal to hire, reduced compensation, or limitations imposed by an employer?

No	19%	Self	5%
Unsure	6%	Co-Worker	5%

Finding: Older Georgia Voters Feel Strongly That Age Discrimination Should Be Treated on Par with Other Forms of Job Discrimination

More than nine in ten respondents (91%) say that competent workers should be able to stay on the job regardless of their age. Accordingly, a similarly large share (93%) agree that older Americans should be protected from age discrimination just as they are protected from other forms of discrimination, including a 79% majority of respondents who strongly agree (figure 5).

Finding: Nearly Nine in Ten Think Congress Needs to Do More to Ensure Equal Job Opportunity for Americans Age 50+

Nearly nine in ten (88%) agree that Congress needs to do more to ensure that people over 50 continue to have equal opportunity in the workplace,” with 67% strongly agreeing (figure 6).

Finding: 50+ Voters Are Overwhelmingly Concerned about the Court’s Decision Making It Tougher for Older Workers, and Think It’s Important For Congress to Restore Legal Protections against Age Discrimination

Respondents were provided a brief description of the 2009 Supreme Court decision that changed the legal standards that apply to age discrimination. The 50+ public seems to understand the connection between the legal burden on workers challenging age discrimination and employer behavior. Over 8 in 10 (85%) agree that making it more difficult to prove age discrimination also makes it easier for employers to discriminate, e.g., by replacing older, higher paid workers with younger, lower paid workers.

Moreover, about 9 in 10 (89%) also say that they think it is important for Congress to take action and restore the workplace protections older Americans had against age discrimination before the US Supreme Court decision, with 68% saying that it is very important that Congress take action (figure 7).

Finding: 80% Favor the Protecting Older Workers Against Discrimination Act

Respondents were provided a brief summary of the Protecting Older Workers Against Discrimination Act (POWADA), then asked whether they favor or oppose the act. Eighty-four percent favor the legislation (figure 8). Even more striking, 56% strongly favor it.

Finding: Support for POWADA Crosses Ideological and Party Lines

The support for POWADA is widespread, crossing ideological and party lines (figure 9). Favorable responses are nearly 80% or more across all subgroups, with at least 50% of self-identified conservatives and independents saying they strongly favor the bill.

Finding: 84% Want Their Member of Congress to Support POWADA

Over four in five respondents, again across ideological and party lines, say their member of Congress should support legislation like POWADA (figure 10).

Finding: 67% Believe POWADA Will Help Older Americans Find Jobs and Keep Working

Respondents were asked what they thought the effects of POWADA would be. When asked to choose between two possible outcomes, 67% say they think that the bill will help older Americans find jobs and keep working. Only 23% think that its impact would mainly be just another government regulation on businesses (figure 11).

Survey Respondent Demographics

A random sample of 502 registered voters age 50 and over in Georgia was used. Respondents were screened to ensure that they were 50+ and that they vote “always,” “almost always,” or “most of the time” “when there is a general election, such as for your state’s senator or member of Congress.”

Results were weighted by age and gender using Current Population Survey benchmarks for the state of Georgia.²

Ideology		Party
Liberal	17%	Democrat	34%
Moderate	25%	Republican	39%
Conservative	48%	Independent	20%
Age		Gender
50-64	66%	Male	46%
65+	34%	Female	54%
Employment Status
Employed	35%	Retired	52%
Full Time	30%	Not Working at All	45%
Part Time	5%	Working at least Part Time	7%
Not Employed	10%	Other	1%
Looking for Work	6%
Not Looking	5%

Note: For demographics other than gender and age, percentages do not add to 100% due to responses of “don’t know” and refusals, which are not displayed.

² Age weights were developed using CPS benchmarks for the percentage of Georgia’s registered voters ages 50+ that fall into the following age categories: ages 50-64, 65-74, and 75+. Gender weights were developed using CPS gender benchmarks for the 50+ population in Georgia (rather than Georgia’s 50+ registered voters) because gender benchmarks for the state’s 50+ registered voters were not available.
