Many older adults expect to work in retirement for financial reasons

42% of adults age 50-plus either already work in retirement for financial reasons or expect they will need to do so.

Retirees

Roughly 3 in 10 retired adults age 50-plus (29%) are either working in retirement for financial reasons or expect they will need to work in retirement for financial reasons.

55% of retirees who are currently working say the main reason they continue to work is out of financial need.

25% of retirees who are not currently working think they will need to work in retirement for financial reasons.

Non-Retirees

Over half (57%) of non-retired adults age 50-plus expect to work in retirement for financial reasons.

63% of non-retired workers think they will need to work in retirement for financial reasons.

40% of non-retired adults who are not currently working think they will need to work in retirement for financial reasons.

Methodology: The survey was fielded May 19-23, 2022 among 1,016 adults age 50-plus in the Foresight 50+ Omnibus. Funded and operated by NORC at the University of Chicago, Foresight 50+ is a probability-based panel designed to be representative of the U.S. household population age 50 or older.