

Floridians 50+ Demand Quality Long-Term Care

Currently, leaders in the Florida state legislature are considering policies that will impact the long-term care that Florida seniors receive. AARP recently asked registered Florida voters age 50 and older about these issues:

Hold Nursing Homes Accountable

Ninety-five percent of Florida voters 50-plus support the right of residents and their families to hold nursing homes and other long-term care facilities accountable for neglect, mistreatment, or abuse. This support is across party lines.

Strongly or Somewhat Support

Bipartisan Agreement for Well-Paid Care

Eighty-nine percent of Florida voters 50-plus support providing a living wage to paid caregivers who work in nursing homes caring for residents.

Strongly or Somewhat Support

State Funds for Adequate Staffing and Safety

Florida voters want to ensure that state funding for nursing homes and other long-term care facilities go towards the health and safety of residents.

Quality Long-Term Care for Nursing Home Residents

Florida voters agree – the quality of care for nursing home residents is extremely or very important.
