Jobs are top-of-mind among West Virginia’s 50+ voters – far out-pacing concerns about the opioid crisis, health care and education. Even among voters 65+, jobs are the top response.

While two-thirds of West Virginia’s 50+ voters say the national economy is growing and half say West Virginia’s economy is growing, few are feeling these benefits materialize in their own lives.
Occupyng Their Minds

On an open-ended basis, health care costs are keeping West Virginians up at night, followed by job issues and the mess in Washington. When asked directly, partisanship and division in the national discourse are the number one concern. A majority of West Virginia’s 50+ voters say they very often worry about how divided their country has become. Closely following, they very often worry about the opioid crisis, rising prices and stagnant wages.

It’s now becoming too difficult for patients who are truly in pain to get the medicine they need because of opioid crackdowns

We aren’t doing enough to stop the opioid epidemic and we need to do more to stop dangerously addicting drugs from being over-prescribed to patients

Compared to prescription drug pricing, Social Security and retirement, opioids are not as strong a factor in driving election choice this November.

The 50+ Voter Mindset: Prescription Drugs

While West Virginia’s 50+ voters say multiple factors are driving up the cost of health care, rising prescription drug prices are the most commonly cited cause.

Importantly, 50+ voters don’t believe these profits are a function of the cost of research and development. Rather, they overwhelmingly believe health care costs are rising because drug companies “charge as much as possible.”

AT A GLANCE

WHAT IS MOST RESPONSIBLE FOR RISING HEALTH CARE COSTS?

50+ voters chose up to two factors

- Drug companies charging too much for medications and treatment 53%
- Health care insurance companies being too focused on profits and not peoples’ health 46%
- The Affordable Care Act, also known as Obamacare 25%
- Doctors, hospitals and other providers ordering unnecessary treatments and over-testing 23%
- An aging U.S. population 10%
- Medical malpractice lawsuits 9%

WOULD YOU SAY THAT PRESCRIPTION DRUG COMPANIES

Among 50+ Voters

- 22% Charge as much as they need to for drugs because research and development is expensive and many drugs fail to reach market
- 68% Charge as much as possible for drugs because they know that people who are sick, have a health condition or are in pain will pay for it
West Virginia’s 50+ voters strongly back proposals that would rein in pharmaceutical profits and lower costs for patients.

Remarkably, in an era of hyper partisanship, support for letting Medicare negotiate directly with drug companies gets nearly unanimous support among West Virginia’s 50+ voters.

Fully three-quarters of 50+ voters in the state want to limit the profits pharmaceutical companies are allowed to make.

It’s clear that 50+ voters think it’s high time the government did something to bring down out-of-control drug costs.

The 50+ Voter Mindset: Social Security

AT A GLANCE

Social Security is one of the most important issues to 50+ voters.

They want to see immediate action to shore it up, but they want to do so in a way that expands benefits to the most vulnerable and they are on guard against Congressional reforms that would harm seniors.

50+ voters want Social Security to be stable and improved for the most vulnerable…

The 50+ Voter Mindset: Medicaid

AT A GLANCE

Medicaid is popular among West Virginia’s 50+ voters.

Relatedly, the proposal to reform Medicaid’s long-term care budget in West Virginia so that it would re-allocate resources away from institutional care, such as nursing homes, towards home care is supported by a majority, irrespective of party.

Would you say you have a favorable or unfavorable view of Medicaid?

Among 50+ Voters

- 68% Favorable
- 27% Unfavorable

West Virginia spends about 30% of its Medicaid budget for long-term care on services provided in the home and about 70% on institutional care, such as nursing home care.

The 50+ Voter Mindset: Caregiving

AT A GLANCE

A family caregiver is someone who provides unpaid care for an adult loved one who is ill, frail, elderly, or has a physical, mental, or emotional disability.

This unpaid care may include assisting with personal needs like bathing and dressing, household chores, meals, shopping, transportation, or managing finances or medical care.
